

Jasmine Love

Children's Advocacy Center Therapist

Hello everyone, my name is Jasmine and am excited that you are interested in receiving therapy services with me. I graduated from the University of Michigan with my Master's in Social Work on the Welfare of Children and Families pathway with a specialization in Interprofessional Trauma-Informed Practice. During graduate school, I interned as a Research Assistant for the Trauma-Informed Programs and Practices for Schools (TIPPS) and continue to work there remotely. I also work remotely on another research project connecting child welfare, child maltreatment, and the COVID-19 pandemic and have published research on the project with her team. I also worked as a CPS Case Reviewer/Shift Leader at the University of Michigan's Child and Adolescent Data Lab for a year throughout grad school.

Previously, I completed a Bachelor's level internship at a different Children's Advocacy Center (CAC) in Michigan and am happy to be back in the CAC world again. I am a limited license clinical social worker. As a Therapist, I use TF-CBT concepts and other treatment modalities. I love to connect the mind and body in treatment using art, play, music, and body movement. As a former college dancer (hip hop was my favorite style, but enjoys learning all styles of dance), I understand the importance of utilizing expressive arts to incorporate into the healing journey. I enjoy walking alongside survivors who have experienced trauma and help them learn more about themselves through therapy. In my free time, I love to dance, take long walks, and spend time with my family and friends.
